The Downside:

Very time-consuming with low-percentage results vs. time invested

- ▶ Due to superficial, inexperienced or unmotivated “researchers.”
  - ▶ that don’t provide documented evidence nor are interested in doing in-depth research,
  - ▶ They are “numbers people” just wanting to add people to their tree (with no regard for the validity of information)
  - ▶ Most only indicate the source as another family tree.
  - ▶ Lack of follow-up of incomplete information.
  - ▶ No consistency in record and source maintenance

Verifying Information You Find Online

Marian Pierre-Louis, Legacy Family Tree Webinars

April 25, 2018

- ▶ Consider whatever you find as only a useful clue to further information.
  - ▶ They can perpetuate erroneous information, unless verified with sources/records
  - ▶ “All online trees w/o citations can be considered suspect.”
- ▶ Quickly analyze a tree by:
  - ▶ Comparing to information you already have.
  - ▶ How many sources are attached.
  - ▶ Check profile of owner of the tree—how long have they researched, how often do they visit?
  - ▶ Check relationship to you.
  - ▶ Quick check for logic—don’t automatically merge all info; enter individual entries.
  - ▶ Can you verify information with a document?
  - ▶ How many people are in the tree—a huge number may indicate a name gatherer w/no back-up.
- ▶ Don’t put copy of records in a public tree.
